

CLOUD ASSESSMENT

Cloud computing is becoming an important platform for business data, providing an environment where business data may be rapidly shared over the Internet in a secure manner. Public and private clouds offer many opportunities to improve your business productivity and ROI. However, there are several cloud-based solutions available and you need to know if cloud computing is right for your business and, if so, which solution is your best fit.

Let HighVail help you make those decisions. HighVail is an expert in cloud computing with several successful deployments already completed. We can offer you a Cloud Assessment to help you make the many decisions on adopting a cloud environment. Our Microsoft cloud-certified consultants can recommend the best tailored cloud service(s) to help you achieve maximum productivity.

What a Cloud Assessment Can Do For You

- We can explain the many business and technical benefits of a cloud-based environment, allowing you to see how the cloud fits into your operations.
- We can recommend the most appropriate strategies for implementing and managing a cloud-based environment in your business, and also indicate which of your current technologies are not a good fit for the cloud.
- We can determine the best way to implement a cloud solution to your specific needs to maximum your business benefit and minimize staff retraining.
- Help you decide which cloud services are right for you from among email (Exchange Online), messaging and presence (Lync Online) and document management (SharePoint Online).
